

QUI TAM QUARTERLY - HEALTH CARE'S NEW WILDERNESS: THE INTERSECTION OF TELEHEALTH & ANCILLARY SERVICES

Date: March 2019

By: Mark A. Rush, Joshua I. Skora, John H. Lawrence, Leah D'Aurora Richardson

New frontiers are emerging in health care as burgeoning technologies merge with health care's ever-evolving landscape. While these new frontiers provide seemingly endless possibilities and opportunities for improving the quality of health care, they also present a constantly changing regulatory and legal environment that individuals and entities operating in the space must navigate.

In the inaugural edition of Qui Tam Quarterly, members of our Health Care Fraud & Abuse team provide a detailed analysis of the current landscape at the intersection of telehealth and ancillary services, including:

- Overview: What is Telehealth?
- Recent Telehealth Enforcement Actions
- Fraud and Abuse (and Other) Considerations Applicable to Telehealth Arrangements
- Projections in Telehealth Enforcement for 2019
