OVERVIEW

Leann Walsh is a partner in the firm's Labor, Employment, and Workplace Safety practice. She co-leads the firm's OFCCP and Affirmative Action Compliance area of focus. She focuses on counseling domestic and international businesses and private equity firms and their portfolio companies on difficult employee relations issues, conducting internal employment investigations, and defending employers in civil and administration employment litigation matters. Her client base spans numerous industries and sizes, from not-for-profit organizations to start-up businesses to publicly traded companies, with concentrations in health care, technology, life science, and financial services.

She regularly advises clients regarding complex labor and employment issues relating to mergers and acquisitions and has advised on employment issues in hundreds of transactions during her career. She also helps to lead the firm's collaborative initiative between its employment law and corporate law practice groups.

Leann is dedicated to working with clients to ensure that they are able to accomplish their business objectives while remaining in compliance with employment laws and maintaining positive employee relations. She is passionate about providing clients both legal and practical business-related advice on improving their workplace culture, morale, diversity, inclusion, and equity. Throughout her career, Leann has worked with clients to help them successfully navigate through varying business climates—from economic downturns, layoffs, and furloughs, to rapid growth, expansion, and acquisitions.

Leann regularly advises clients regarding compliance issues relating to affirmative action programs, including the development and implementation of affirmative action plan documents. She also advises clients relating to compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, including examination accommodations and the accessibility of continuing professional education courses, websites, and physical buildings and facilities. Leann works with clients to resolve these issues with the U.S. Department of Justice, the U.S. Office for Civil Rights, and private litigants.

Leann is a member of Moguls in HR, an exclusive network of the most successful female HR leaders worldwide.

Leann is also a member and article contributor to the American Health Lawyers Association, the nation's largest nonprofit educational organization devoted to legal issues in the health care field, and a member of the firm's collaborative initiative between its health care and employment law practice groups.

Within the firm, Leann is a member of the Raleigh office's recruiting committee. She is also an active participant in the firm's Women in the Profession Committee and leads the committee's Raleigh office book club, which focuses on facilitating the professional, personal, and business development of its members while strengthening the professional bonds between them. Leann is also a member of the firm's Diversity Committee, and a vocal ally of the firm's LGBTQ affinity group.

Within the larger legal community, Leann is a member of the National Association of Women Lawyers, including its Women in Employment Law Group, empowering women in the legal profession and advocating for the equality of women under the law.

Leann is an alumni of the North Carolina Bar Association's 2020 Leadership Academy, an intensive leadership training program for young lawyers expected to become leaders within the legal profession, their firms, and their local, state, national, and international communities.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Prior to joining the firm, Leann served as a senior associate at a Global 50 law firm where she counseled clients on employment matters, conducted internal employee investigations, gained significant employment litigation defense experience, including civil cases at both the state and federal levels, and provided employment law guidance in corporate transactions.

In 2016, Leann was temporarily assigned to a highly competitive six month program prosecuting crime as a Special Assistant District Attorney on behalf of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. In that role, she served as lead or co-counsel on fifty bench and jury trials and motions which involved a wide array of criminal conduct, including the crimes of operating under the influence, assault and battery, distribution of narcotics, criminal harassment, strangulation, and conspiracy.

During law school, Leann served for two years as a teaching and research assistant in a Legal, Research, Reasoning & Writing Class of Boston College Law School. She also served as a student attorney in the Boston College Legal Assistant Bureau Housing Clinic, where she successfully appealed the termination of Section 8 Housing benefits in an administrative hearing and favorably settled and mediated eviction and condominium conversion cases.

Leann interned in 2009 for the Office of the Solicitor of the U.S. Department of Labor in Boston, Massachusetts where she produced policy analyses and provided litigation support in cases relating to the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and the Employee Retirement Income Security Act. Leann interned from 2004 to 2008 in the Legal Department of Jabil, a Fortune 500 publicly-traded company, where she analyzed international employment law compliance issues, assisted with the company's internal investigations, and drafted company policies and procedures.
