Update on EU Sanctions against Russia

Further to our update of 21 July 2014, please find below a summary of recent developments regarding EU sanctions against Russia.

EU sanctions

Late on 25 July, the EU added 15 further persons and 18 entities responsible for action against Ukraine’s territorial integrity to the list of those subject to an asset freeze, a prohibition against making funds or economic resources available and an EU travel ban. The individuals, together with the reasons for their inclusion in the list of persons subject to restrictive measures as described in the EU legislation, are listed in Appendix 1.

The criteria under which the EU adds individuals and entities to the list of individuals and entities subject to restrictive measures were expanded. This means that the EU is now imposing restrictive measures against:

1. individuals responsible for, actively supporting or implementing, actions or policies which undermine or threaten the territorial integrity, sovereignty and independence of Ukraine, or stability or security in Ukraine or which obstruct the work of international organisations in Ukraine;
2. individuals and entities associated with individuals mentioned in point 1 above;
3. individuals and entities supporting, materially or financially, actions which undermine or threaten the territorial integrity, sovereignty and independence of Ukraine;
4. individuals and entities in Crimea or Sevastopol whose ownership has been transferred contrary to Ukrainian law;
5. individuals and entities which have benefited from a transfer set out in pint 4; or
6. individuals and entities who actively provide material or financial support to, or are benefiting from, Russian decision-makers responsible for the annexation of Crimea and Sevastopol or the destabilisation of Eastern-Ukraine.

As requested by EU leaders on 16 July, the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development has now confirmed that it will not make any new investments in Russia. However, it will continue to manage existing investments.

At the same time, the EU Member States are still discussing further targeted sanctions against Russia. It has been reported that such sanctions include a prohibition to purchase Russian bonds or shares issued by any of the Russian banks with more than 50 percent state ownership. The Commission has also proposed an arms embargo, an export ban on goods that have dual use (both for civilian and military purposes) and restrictions on exporting energy technology items for deep-sea drilling, Arctic exploration and shale oil extraction. The debate is on-going and we will report on any developments.

Should you have any questions regarding the latest sanctions and/or protection of investments, please do not hesitate to contact the authors.
