

K&L Gates Public Policy and Law Practice:

Nanotechnology

Our Public Policy and Law group has counseled a range of research institutions and companies developing groundbreaking nanotechnology products.

The transformative field of nanotechnology holds tremendous promise to create products which are lighter, cleaner, stronger and more precise than traditional materials. We understand the challenges faced by companies in this emerging arena as well as the promise their remarkable achievements hold. We have helped companies in various areas of nanotechnology, including carbon nanotube coatings; molecular diagnostic tests for the medical community; high performance inorganic nanostructures; nanotechnology to improve fabrics; and ultra-dense, low-power, lower-cost memory chips.

Pioneers in the nanotech area, K&L Gates' team serves as counsel to the NanoBusiness Alliance, the world's leading nanotechnology trade association. We worked with the Alliance to secure passage of the 21st Century Nanotechnology Research and Development Act, which authorizes $3.7 billion in federal support for nanotechnology.

Having represented a diverse range of nanotechnology companies for many years, K&L Gates professionals have a unique ability to recognize and serve the legal, technical and policy issues nanotechnology companies must address to succeed.
