While the onset of a natural disaster is generally unpredictable, we can proactively prepare with mitigation efforts and emergency response procedures. As we experienced throughout 2020, and through present day, natural disasters are among only some of the events that can lead to business disruption. Preparation for such disruptions as a result of an emergency event should be evaluated and reviewed regularly.

To assist businesses dealing with or mitigating disasters of any kind, we are pleased to share our complimentary Disaster Preparedness Toolkit—including considerations revealed by the COVID-19 pandemic. This comprehensive toolkit provides guidance on core aspects of business operations to help you mitigate risks and losses in the face of crises old and new.
