OVERVIEW

Christian Zazzali is a commercial litigation attorney for leading companies across industries such as technology, healthcare, and financial services. He has handled complex cases in arbitration, as well as federal district courts nationwide. His experience includes both prosecuting and defending high-profile matters related to fraud, contract breaches, fiduciary duties, and consumer class actions.

Christian provides counsel on case strategy, discovery, preparing witnesses, and examining witnesses at trial. He has also assisted with sensitive workplace investigations.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Prior to joining the firm Christian served as a legal intern for a law office in New Jersey. Through this role, Christian researched and drafted memoranda, briefs, and motions on wide range of civil disputes, including sexual assault claims against public schools. Christian also co-founded a digital assets holdings company focused on decentralized finance solutions and non-fungible token management.
