OVERVIEW

Sophie Levitt is a trainee solicitor in the firm's London office. She is a member of the Asset and Corporate Finance practice group.

PROFESSIONAL BACKGROUND

Prior to joining the firm, Sophie worked at various law firms in London where she gained experience in different areas of law such as intellectual property, litigation, family law, property law, and corporate law. Sophie worked on a transaction structure chart for a cross-border transaction, wrote a report on the impact of Brexit for the financial services sector, and investigated a potential claim of defamation. Sophie also worked at a Paris law firm on her year abroad where she compared different countries' succession laws and undertook research on data protection of social media accounts after death.

Sophie also has experience in fashion, journalism, banking, and accountancy.
