OVERVIEW

Greg Blase advises clients on the development of integrated solutions for risk mitigation in industries that have consumer-facing business operations. He counsels companies to identify regulatory and litigation risk and to advise in-house legal departments and management on best practices for responding to that risk. Greg's clients include leading companies in the financial services, energy, media and telecommunications, manufacturing, and consumer products industries. Greg provides regulatory-compliance advice and policy and procedure review. He oversees audits and internal investigations and responds to government investigations. Greg defends complex litigation including class actions. He takes a holistic approach to addressing legal risk, recognizing the importance of bringing stakeholders together to solve problems collectively.
